Re: Software Developer Intern

Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm submitting my resume in response to your job posting looking for a Software Developer Intern. I am currently a second-year Computer Programmer Analyst student at George Brown College. After looking through the posting on Jobslever.co, I feel like I have the necessary skills, experience and knowledge to qualify for a position.

I enjoy being challenged and engaging in new projects that will further my skills as a junior developer and require me to work outside my comfort zone and current knowledge set. I intend to further my knowledge in new languages and development techniques as it is important to me and the success of your organization. During my time at George Brown, I have become proficient in programming the Java language whilst developing a passion and understanding of the core fundamentals of Computer Science. This has enabled me to become adept in thoroughly understanding data structures and algorithms while gaining an understanding of back end development. I feel these skills would compliment your organization. My previous work experience from customer service roles and other technician roles have also taught me how to work as an effective and valuable team member while being able to work independently and efficiently.

I would be thrilled if I was a suitable candidate for an internship. I hope with my skills, knowledge, and experience that I would be an excellent addition to the team. If you have any questions, please give me a call at 647-803-5215 or email me at faheem.ahmed@georgebrown.ca. Thank you for taking the time to consider my application, I hope to hear from you in the future.

Respectfully yours,

Faheem Ahmed
